

SOUNDS CALL FOR MORE U. S. TROOPS

GEN. R. K. EVANS SAYS OUR ARMY IS ENTIRELY TOO SMALL TO COPE WITH AN ENEMY.

Los Angeles, Aug. 28.—Sounding the call for more regular troops for the United States army and an equal increase for the militia, Gen. R. K. Evans, chief of the division of militia affairs of the United States army, arrived in Los Angeles en route to Washington with his official report concerning the recent militia war maneuvers held at San Francisco last week.

Short in Two Departments. Fifty per cent short on infantry, as short on cavalry and shorter still on artillery—what would the nation do in case of real fighting, is the report this distinguished officer is bearing back to headquarters.

"The recent maneuvers," explained Gen. Evans, "some persons laughed at, some wondered over, but most of us vitally interested could have wept."

"The pity of it is this—when one stops to consider what that rehearsal of our real strength brought to light, the 'Reds' and the 'Blues' consisted of three regiments of regulars and three regiments of national guard. The regulars were 58 men short to the company and the militia 68.

Efficiency Would Be Spoiled. "Go to war? With this 50 per cent shortage and what would happen? Do you say we might fill the vacancies with recruits?" and Gen. Evans laughed.

"That would spoil our efficiency," Gen. Evans declared we could not send out 20,000 trained cavalrymen and artillerymen today, "if our lives depended upon it."

Gen. Evans left today for Washington, where he will make his report within five days.

SOLVES HOLES IN CHEESE

Department of Agriculture Says Causes Are Formed by Gases Generated While Cheese Is Ripening.

Washington, Aug. 28.—The department of agriculture at last has solved the mystery of holes in cheese. They are formed, the government sharp declares, by gases generated while the cheese is "ripening."

"The Case of Emmental Cheese" is the title of a booklet just issued on the subject, and it has this to say: "Emmental, or swiss cheese, is largely dependent for commercial value upon the size and spacing of the holes therein, and while the holes are not the whole of it, their formation is a fascinating subject. Defects in hole formation cause much depreciation in the value of this popular variety of cheese."

SUBPOENAED, KILLS HIMSELF

Man Wanted as Witness in Connection With Planting of Dynamite Snuffs Out Own Life.

Andover, Mass., Aug. 28.—Earnest W. Pitman, head of the E. W. Pitman Co., one of the largest textile mill construction companies in New England, shot and killed himself at his home here.

Later it was learned that Pitman had been subpoenaed to appear before a session of the Suffolk county grand jury to testify regarding planting of dynamite to discredit strikers during the Lawrence strike last winter. John J. Breen, school commissioner at Lawrence and prominent in Suffolk county politics, was found guilty and fined $500 for planting dynamite.

Millions of flies during the last week have attacked horses and cows in big swarms in field and street until the animals became maddened by the pests and many ran away.

3,000 WOMEN IN MARCH FOR VOTE

SEVENTY-FIVE THOUSAND SPECTATORS CHEER PARADE OF OHIO SUFFRAGISTS.

Columbus, Aug. 28.—To the cheers of 75,000 persons along the line of march, 3,000 Ohio suffragists stepped in their national parade here bearing banners pleading for the ballot.

The parade started at 11 a. m., on time to the second.

Among the marching women, nearly all clad in plain white dresses with skirts of ankle length and sturdy walking shoes, were doctors and lawyers, nurses and housekeepers, teachers and waitresses, society and club women, and mothers and daughters whose activities are centered in their homes.

"We teach voters, but we can't vote," said the banner borne by the teachers' delegation.

"Women vote in China; why not in Ohio?" was the slogan carried by the Cleveland delegation, headed by Mrs. J. J. Sullivan, Miss Selma Sullivan, Miss Myra Jones and Miss Zara Du Pont.

There were 100 autos bedecked with flowers and banners, and then came 12 floats illustrating history of suffrage and woman's suffrage successes in the six "free" states.

Besides, there were 100 men marchers, led by ex-Mayor Marshall of Columbus and Dean Denny of Ohio State University.

Auto Tosses Sleeping Boy. Columbus, Aug. 28.—The strange phenomenon of an automobile running rapidly, hitting the rear of a vegetable wagon, lifting a sleeping boy out of the wagon, tossing him in the machine, which sped on for a distance, without awakening the boy, occurred here.

The boy was Stanley Cramer, living 14 miles northeast of the city. The automobile belonged to Walter J. Jeffrey of this city. It was not known at first that the boy had been transferred to the automobile unharmed and pedestrians rushed to the demolished wagon expecting to find him dead.

Only his hat was found and a search was commenced. In about an hour the boy returned and told of how he had awakened in a rapidly moving automobile.

Daughter Makes Threat Good. Athens, Aug. 28.—Chairman Daugherty's threat to go into counties where the Progressives controlled Republican organization and put up a new one, was made good here. Athens county being the first, it was tried. Fred W. Bush was elected president of a new club that started with 160 members.

The work for Bush is to put up a new organization to supplant that controlled by former State Secretary Israel Foster, who took his entire organization to the Progressives. Resolutions endorsing the course Daugherty is pursuing was adopted. The work of organizing the county is to be started at once.

Stolen Shoes Don't Fit.

Bellefontaine, Aug. 28.—Robert Bailey, 50, of Huntsville, pleaded guilty to a charge of burglarizing the Sturms general store at Huntsville.

Burglaries of the store had been frequent and Marshal Austine hid in the store four nights to capture the thief. Sunday night Bailey entered through a rear window and was carrying out plunder when the marshal arrested him and after a tussle landed him in jail. Bailey had brought back a pair of shoes that did not fit, to exchange for a larger size.

He was picked up a few minutes after the accident and carried into the station, where he died without regaining consciousness. Orms lived in Olmsted Falls.

His Mistake.

"Did the story he made up to tell his wife pan out all right?" "Nope, it was a complete failure." "It sounded good to me." "Yes, he invented it when he was sober, and when he got home and started to try it out he found there were so many big words in it that no man in his condition could pronounce that he had to give it up. His next effort will be in words of one syllable.—Houston Post.

Enduring Poverty

Full Stomach Better Than Pretty Dresses

By MRS. M. K. ALLEN, Ukiah, Cal.

W HERE shall we skimp—in food or clothing? When we were married we talked the financial matter over and decided that if we were ever to come to an easy, comfortable old age we must begin to save at once. We decided to sacrifice a certain amount of social standing rather than economize on our table. We lived in the city and husband and I were always well dressed for church and street occasions, but never aspired to any social prestige because we could not. When our little girl was born, we spared no pains or expense to give her the best food obtainable. We wanted her to be physically perfect, for we knew that with a fine physique, mental qualities would develop in proportion. Once our family physician was called in to see her and when he inquired about her diet I remarked I was giving her meat broths and meat juices two or three times a week. "Yes," he said, "that's good. She's well nourished. One can see that. Our baby should have those things, too, but we just can't afford it. Gas and meats are so very high we can't do it." That week his wife incidentally remarked to me that her new fall hat cost $15. Jack and I were horrified that one could deny the baby things she needed and be so extravagant in dress. We would never, never do such a thing. We would never let our children be bowlegged, pale faced little creatures and us animated fashion plates! Alas for our delusions!

Five years passed and Jennie was old enough to enter Sunday school. We got her a new cloak, hat and shoes and one dress for "best." She loved her Sunday school teacher and Sunday was Jennie's one day of all. She attended regularly for six weeks. Then our air castles fell. She came home one day crying as if her heart were broken. After much coaxing we got from her "that a girl at Sunday school had said we must be very, very poor, for she had worn the same dress to Sunday school for six weeks." This remark was made by a girl of ten years, who wore a silk dress and a diamond ring and other equally foolish and extravagant accessories. Of course, we knew this child of 10 had never thought that out. Some one in her home had made a remark like that and the child had passed the idea on. But we never could convince little 5-year-old Jennie of this. She only saw her own humiliation and no amount of coaxing would induce her to go back to Sunday school.

Fortunately we moved from the city and she has forgotten it. She goes to Sunday school now and dresses better than we can afford to dress at the expense of our table. We decided it would be hunger-ache or heartache and so chose the former. It was a most difficult problem, but we think it has been solved.

EXPLAINS POSTAL LAW

HITCHCOCK MAKES STATEMENT COVERING SUNDAY ACT.

Says Newspapers and Hotel Guests Will Be Able to Get Mail on Seventh Day of Week.

Washington, Aug. 28.—Striving to check the flood of protests against the new regulations against the delivery of all except special delivery mail on Sundays, even to holders of postoffice boxes, Postmaster General Hitchcock issued this explanatory statement: "Mail received up to midnight on Saturday for lock boxes will be distributed to the boxes and will be available to box holders on Sunday, as usual. There is at present no street delivery of mail by letters carriers on Sunday and therefore the law makes no changes in this regard. In short, the only mail that will be affected under a reasonable construction of the new law is that received at the post-offices on Sunday and hitherto sorted on that day for distribution to lock boxes.

"As the purpose of the law, which was clearly enacted in the interest of the employees, is to reduce, as far as possible, the amount of Sunday labor, the work of distributing Sunday mail to lock boxes will be limited to certain classes of mail that cannot be held until Monday morning without serious inconvenience to the addressees. This mail will include that for newspapers and for hotel guests. The latter is peculiarly transient in character and should not be delayed. This mail, like the special delivery mail, will be sorted out at the offices to dispatch on the railway mail trains in order to simplify the work of distribution in the postoffices on Sundays. Under the new method its distribution to the boxes on Sunday will be hastened, rather than delayed. In order to give the new law as liberal a construction as possible, postmasters will be instructed, on application, to have their employees sort out in emergency cases on Sundays letters of special importance. This does not require the closing of postoffices on Sundays, which would be quite impossible."

But That Was Long Ago. Hewitt—Times have changed. Jewett—Right you are; I remember when a pedestrian had an even chance for his life when he tried to cross the street.

SMOKES FIRST CIGAR AT 107

Man Who Conducted First Blacksmith Shop in Danville, Ill., Appeared to Enjoy Weed.

Danville, Ill., Aug. 28.—William Henry Harbaugh has just celebrated his 107th birthday anniversary and is still a hale and hearty man. He came to Illinois and to Danville in 1833 and conducted the first blacksmith shop in the town. At the age of 75 years he retired from active work but when he rounded out a century he went to the blacksmith shop of his son and, just to show the boys that he was still able to do manual labor, shod a horse. On August 27 he smoked his first cigar and appeared to like it.

Michigan Race Close.

Detroit, Aug. 28.—Amos Musselman of Grand Rapids and Secretary of State Fred C. Martin are running neck and neck for the Republican nomination for governor. Scattering returns from the state-wide primaries so far received indicate that the principal struggle is so close as to preclude any possibility of determining before this morning, at the earliest, which of the two is the probable nominee.

Why It Has a Hump.

Keepers of the zoological gardens are expected to know all the facts and theories of natural history, and, as they do not, they sometimes have to manufacture explanations.

One of the men in the Philadelphia zoo was asked, by a visitor, what the hump on the camel's back was for.

"What's it for?" repeated the keeper, in a dazed way.

"Yes, of what value is it?"

The keeper thought real hard for a minute, and then said, gravely:

"Why, sir, do you suppose folks would come miles to see this animal if it didn't have a hump? Sir, a camel if it didn't have a hump might just as well be a cow. That's the use of the hump!"

Something Like It.

"Will you have some mocking bird soup?"

A new waitress in a family hotel on the hill started the diners last evening by asking this question. "I'll not eat at this hotel again. I'm a member of the Audubon society. The very idea! Making soup out of mocking birds!" indignantly remarked a woman.

"I'll take a chance on it just once," said her husband.

The waitress went to the kitchen and returned.

"I made a mistake," she said. "It was mock turtle soup."

But That Was Long Ago.

Hewitt—Times have changed. Jewett—Right you are; I remember when a pedestrian had an even chance for his life when he tried to cross the street.
